JUDICIAL ELECTIONS GIVE IDAHOANS CHOICES

Judicial Elections took center stage in 1990. Two Supreme Court Justices, one Court of Appeals Judge, and 36 Magistrate Judges were on ballots around the state, but what made 1990 special is that all 33 District Judges were up for election, an event that occurs every four years.

How Judges Are Elected

From statehood, Idaho Supreme Court Justices and District Judges (and now Court of Appeals Judges) have run for office in contested elections, against any opponent qualified to file. Since 1934, the contests have been non-partisan--no party affiliations are indicated, and political parties are prohibited from endorsing judicial candidates.

The five Supreme Court Justices and three judges of the Court of Appeals run for six-year terms of office on a staggered basis, which means that one or two of those offices is always before the voters every two years. District Judges, however, all run for a four-year term of office in the same year. Elections are held during the May primary. If there are multiple candidates, and no candidate wins a majority in the primary, then the top two candidates face off in the November general election of that year.

While they must be elected to keep their office, most Idaho judges come to the bench by way of appointment. When vacancies in judicial offices occur during a term, applicants are nominated by the Idaho Judicial Council, and then appointed by the Governor from a list of qualified applicants.

The judges of Idaho's limited jurisdiction Magistrate Division are elected in a different process. Since 1974, Magistrate Judges follow a system popularized in the state of Missouri in the 1940's, whereby judges stand for election on their record, not against an opponent. Voters are asked to vote "yes" or "no" on whether the incumbent should be retained in office. All Magistrate Judges initially are appointed to office by Magistrate Commissions in each of the seven judicial districts, composed of county commissioners, mayors, private citizens and local lawyers. Unlike district judges, magistrate judges' four-year terms are staggered, based on the year of appointment.

Election Results

Two Supreme Court Justices went before the voters in 1990. Neither faced opposition. Justice Stephen Bistline was re-elected to a third consecutive six-year term. Justice Larry M. Boyle, who was appointed to fill a vacancy in 1989, was elected to his first full six-year term.

Court of Appeals Chief Judge, Jesse M. Walters was re-elected to a second consecutive six-year term on that court, also unopposed.

Twenty-eight of the 33 sitting District Judges were re-elected without opposition in the May 22nd Idaho primary. Two District Judges--Hon. James R. Michaud from the First Judicial District, and Hon. Wayne P. Fuller, Third Judicial District--were re-elected against opponents. One sitting District Judge, Hon. H. Reynold George, was defeated for re-election--by the Hon. Marvin M. Smith, a sitting Magistrate Judge. In a contested race for an open position, Hon. Linda Copple Trout, a sitting Magistrate Judge, won and became the first woman in Idaho history to reach the District Court bench initially by election. A former Magistrate Judge, Hon. Craig Kosonen, was elected without opposition to fill a position vacated by resignation.

In the November 6 retention elections for Magistrate Judges, 36 of the state's 74 Magistrate Judges went before the voters. Two long-time Magistrate Judges--First District Judge Virginia Balser and Seventh District Judge Jerry Reynolds--failed to receive enough votes to be retained in office. Their defeats were only the 5th and 6th times that a Magistrate Judge has failed to be retained, since retention elections began. As has been the case in each of the nine retention elections which have been held since 1974, the statewide average of "yes" votes for all Magistrate Judges on the ballot was above 70%, indicating general satisfaction with the job being done by incumbent judges.

While many judicial offices went uncontested, and while fewer people registered their votes on judicial ballots as compared with partisan races, the judicial election system gives Idahoans the opportunity to express their choice for their judge. Many took that opportunity, and in 1990, most were happy with the office occupant.

COURT HISTORY PUBLISHED

On the occasion of the state's Centennial in 1990, the first history of the Idaho Court system was published in July, 1990, Justice For The Times. The book traces Idaho's judicial history through the early territorial days to the present, highlighting "cash register justice," the big Bill Haywood trials, and many other significant events that have shaped Idaho's judiciary in the last century. Appendices for the publication include a history of the University of Idaho Law School, a report on the evolution of legal research in Idaho's court libraries, and an article on Idaho courthouse architecture. Written by volunteer chapter authors, Justice For The Times was published by the Idaho Law Foundation, and is available from the Foundation's Boise offices.

4.6% Increase Statewide
RECORD TRIAL COURT FILINGS (AGAIN)

For the fifth consecutive year, Idaho's trial courts reported record filings. Since 1985, filings have been increasing an average of 4 - 5% each year. Overall, there were a total of 396,974 new cases filed in Idaho's trial courts during 1990, as compared to 379,316 cases reported in 1989. Total new cases in the district courts in 1990 were 11,155, up from 1989's total of 10,744. New cases in the magistrate division stood at 385,819 at the end of 1990, compared with 1989's aggregate of 368,872.

Growth Patterns

Between 1970 and 1980, the state's population grew by 32% - from 713,015 to 943,935 - and the number of attorneys almost tripled from an estimated 600 to 1,540. Case filings in that decade grew 4 - 5% each year, cresting in 1980, when 321,517 cases were filed with the trial courts.

In the 1980's growth continued, but at a much less hectic pace. Idaho's population grew to 1,011,986 in 1990, a 7% increase from 1980. The number of attorneys rose to 1994 by the end of the decade. Despite a brief downturn in 1981 and 1982, perhaps reflecting Idaho's economic recession, the number of new cases in the trial courts have increased steadily. By the end of the decade, the 1990 total of 396,974 cases had shown a 23% rise since 1980.

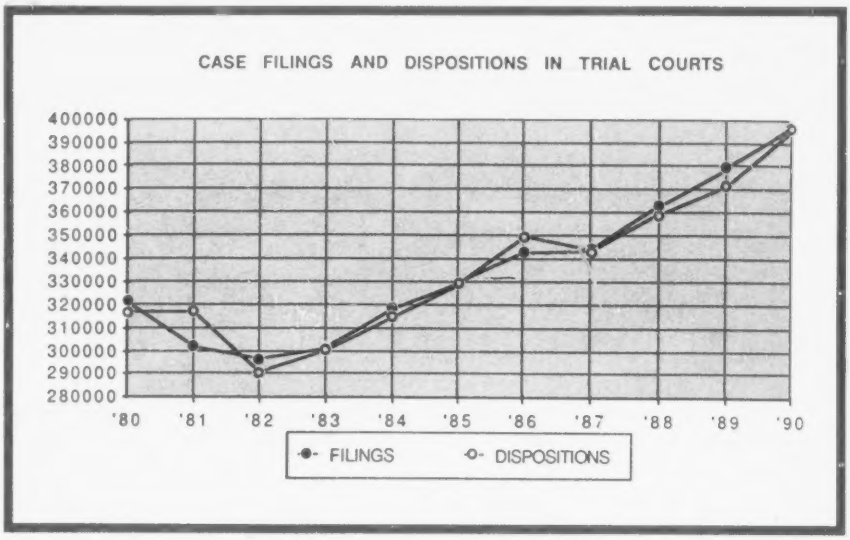
With some forecasts of a 30% population increase in the next two decades, court officials can expect to build more courtrooms and to add more judges to accommodate heavier workloads in future years.

Winners and Losers

Traffic cases (not including DUI) reached a new record level during 1990. Traffic filings during 1989 were at 240,679. One year later, that number has increased to 250,663--an overall increase of 4.1%.

For the fourth consecutive year, civil case filings in the district court dropped during 1990. While civil filings were reported at record levels at the end of 1986, they have declined each year since then, with an overall decline of 20.3% between 1986 and 1990. This drop in civil filings runs counter to the opinions of national experts, who predicted record civil filings to continue through to the end of the 1980's, based on economic trends. Civil filings in the magistrate division increased slightly, up 1% over the civil filings reported at the end of 1989, with most of the increase attributed to domestic relations cases.

Idaho's small claims department witnessed a slight drop in the number of new complaints filed during 1990, when compared to the number reported during 1989. A total of 14,911 small claims complaints were filed in 1989, compared with the 14,469 complaints filed during 1990, reflecting a 3% decrease. Although Idaho does not allow attorneys or collection agencies to file small claims actions, small businessmen and private individuals continue to utilize the small claims department as a quick and inexpensive way to collect debts.



Total district court filings for 1990 have increased for the third straight year. Overall, there has been a 7.5% increase, confined primarily to criminal case processing. Criminal filings in the district courts have increased steadily, with a 9.8% increase in 1990 over the number reported at the end of 1989. Since 1980, criminal filings have increased 92% in the district courts. Not surprisingly, Idaho also has had one of the fastest-rising prison populations in the West, with the number of inmates jumping 17% in 1989, alone.

Cases Per Judge

On the average, a total of 352 new cases were filed per district judge statewide. The average number of filings per magistrate judge was 5,213 cases during 1990. This compares with prior new case filings of 343 per district judge and 5,207 new cases per magistrate judge during 1989. The district judges disposed an average of 349 cases per judge during 1990, while judges of the magistrate division averaged 5,206 dispositions per judge.

Dispositions Increase

Idaho's trial judges continue to increase dispositions in response to the larger number of cases entering the system. During 1990, a total of 396,323 cases reached final disposition, an increase of 24,362, or 6.5% over the 371,961 reported one year ago. Of the civil cases receiving a final judgment in the trial courts during 1990, 23,070, or 41%, were disposed of with a trial or court hearing. Of the criminal cases, 96% were disposed of through pleas or dismissals, while 15,717, or 4%, received a court or jury trial.

Drug Cases Decline

While most of the nation's urban areas struggle to deal with the crush of drug-related criminal cases, Idaho has remained relatively free of this scourge. After a significant jump in felony drug cases between 1988 and 1989, felony drug filings for 1990 have dropped by 14% over the figures reported during 1989. Similarly, misdemeanor drug filings have also declined during 1990, dropping by 10%. Overall, drug case filings dipped by 13%, dropping from 3,397 filings reported in 1989 to 2,949 in 1990.

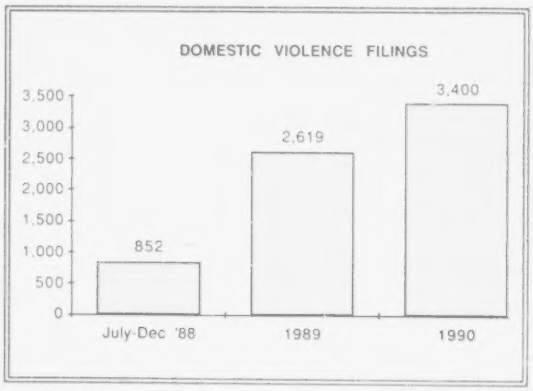
DOMESTIC VIOLENCE PROTECTION ON UPSWING

Since the Domestic Violence Crime Prevention Act became effective on July 1, 1988, sharply rising numbers of people have been approaching the courts for help each year. In 1990, 3,400 new petitions for protective orders were filed statewide, a 30% increase over 1989. These petitions bring with them a responsibility for courts to reach out in an untraditional (for courts) way to protect the alleged victim from violence, and they have strained the resources of courts to keep pace in many urban locations.



The 1990 legislative session saw one amendment which should help courts: a bill making it a misdemeanor for anyone to violate the terms of a protective order, thus giving orders the added muscle of police arrest and criminal prosecution for violators. Other changes were taking shape, too--a committee appointed by Chief Justice Robert E. Bakes and chaired by Second District Judge Linda Copple Trout, met throughout 1990 to develop a series of new form orders to improve judicial handling of domestic violence cases. Adopted by the Supreme Court, these new forms will make protective orders more uniform throughout the state, and make it easier for battered spouses to seek court protection.

Untraditional as these cases may be for courts, their volume is increasing so rapidly that they promise to demand even greater court attention in the future.

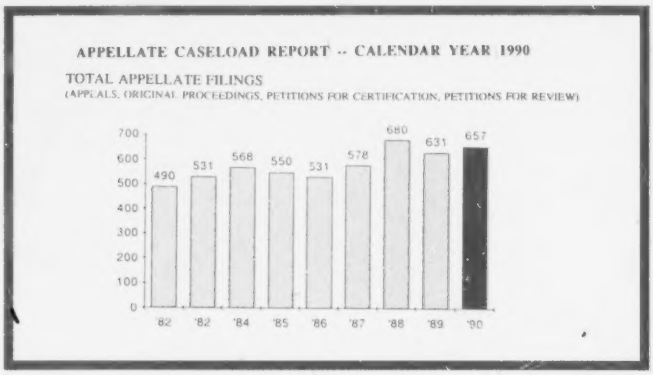
APPELLATE FILINGS CLIMB

Idaho's Appellate courts witnessed an increase in the number of proceedings entering the appellate system in 1990, over the numbers reported in 1989. Total appellate filings, which include new appeals, original proceedings, petitions for certification and petitions for review, increased from 631 total appellate filings in 1989 to 657 for 1990, a 4.1% increase. The 657 total appellate filings reported for 1990 is the second highest number reported on record, only exceeded by the 680 reported during 1988.

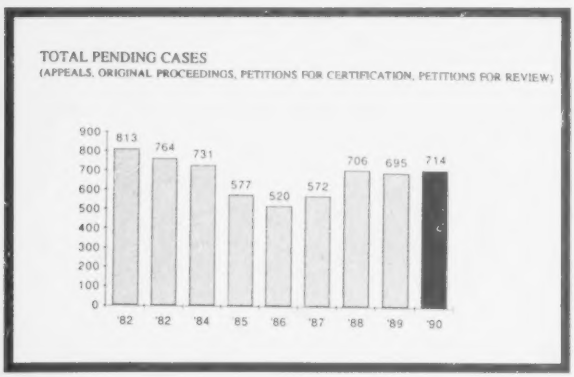


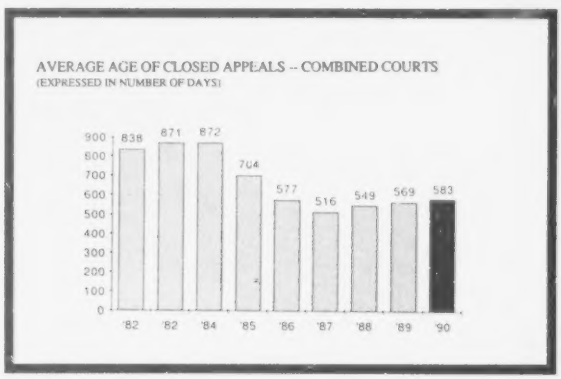
New appeals entering the appellate system increased from 489 in 1989 to 541 during 1990. By contrast, original proceedings, petitions for certification and petitions for review of decisions from the Court of Appeals by the Supreme Court, all declined in 1990, when compared to the figures reported for 1989.

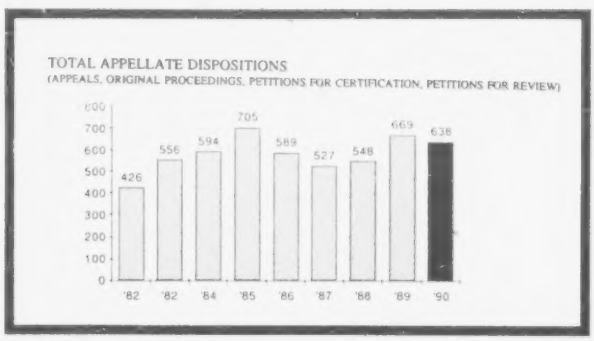
Total appellate dispositions dropped by 4.6% or 31 dispositions from the figures reported for 1989. The total number of pending appellate actions increased by 2.7% during 1990. Total number of pending appeals before the Supreme Court and Court of Appeals increased from 671 pending appeals in 1989 to 700 in 1990. The number of pending original proceedings, petitions for certification, as well as petitions for review dropped during 1990 from the figures reported one year before.

The Supreme Court was able to reduce the average age of appeals reaching disposition during 1990. At the end of 1989, the average age of appeals being disposed of by the Supreme Court was 662 days. One year later, that figure has dropped to 611. During 1990, the average age of appeals disposed of by the Court of Appeals was 560 days, an increase over the 508-day average reported during 1989. This increase is due, in large measure, to a vacancy on the three-member court during 1990. When the results for the two courts are combined, the average age of finally decided appeals increased by two weeks, to 583 days.

Overall, Idaho's appellate courts have made significant progress in reducing delay at the appellate level. At the end of 1984, the average age of appeals reaching disposition was 872 days. Six years later, that figure has dropped to 583 days, an overall reduction of 9.5 months.







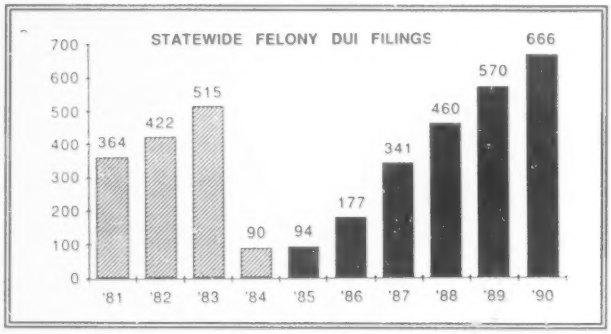
First Increase in Misdemeanors Since 1986

DUI REPORT: MORE CASES

Reversing a three-year trend, DUI filings at the trial court level increased during 1990. A total of 12,435 cases entered the court system during 1990, which is an increase of 714 cases, or 6% from the cases reported in 1989. Court officials had been hopeful that the prior downward trend in DUI filings reflected a change in the public's attitude toward drunken driving. The figures for 1990, however, may be signaling that drunken driving will continue to be a problem for the public and the courts in Idaho.

The "New DUI Law"

In 1983, the Idaho Legislature passed a "tough" new law to deter drunken driving. Immediately after the new law took effect on July 1, 1983, DUI charges dropped sharply statewide, offering hope that tougher sentences were discouraging drivers from drinking. Misdemeanor DUI complaints rebounded slightly in 1984 and again increased in 1986, but when adjusted for changes in the felony statutes, were still less than in pre-law (before the DUI law went into effect) days. While not dramatic, this consistent decrease had raised expectations that education efforts and increased law enforcement were having a significant effect, until this last year



Felonies Rise

The new DUI law allows prosecutors to upgrade a misdemeanor to a felony only when prior DUI convictions occurred after July 1, 1983. Thus, DUI defendants who might otherwise have been prosecuted on a felony charge, were given a clean slate as of that date. As a result, the number of DUI felony complaints first dropped dramatically beginning on July 1, 1983, to 90 complaints, but have risen steadily ever since. In 1990, 666 DUI felony cases were filed throughout Idaho, an increase of 16% over 1989.

Trials Stabilize

The number of DUI cases going to trial, which had increased from about 3% in "pre-new law" days, to 12% in December of 1983, has stabilized once again at about 3% of the dispositions statewide in 1990.

More Jail Time

Defendants convicted of DUI charges continue to receive sentences of incarceration at higher rates than before the new law went into effect. Although some sentences are suspended, 88.8% of the defendants who appeared before a judge for sentencing on misdemeanor DUI charges were sentenced to jail in 1990, up from 87.5% in 1989. Prior to the new DUI law, only 43% of the defendants appearing before a judge received a sentence including incarceration.

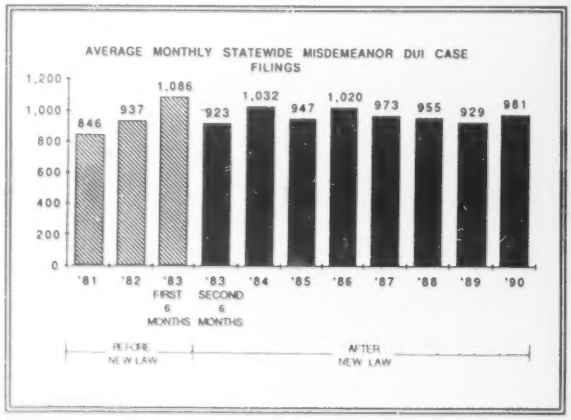
Plea Bargaining

About 77.4% of the misdemeanor DUI defendants pled guilty to misdemeanor DUI charges in 1990, about the same rate as the 78% average of defendants who pled guilty prior to the new law.

The number of defendants pleading guilty to reduced or amended charges--"plea" or "charge bargains"--has dropped from the 16.2% reported in 1989. At the conclusion of 1990, 13% of the total dispositions were pleas entered by the defendant to reduced or amended charges. In Ada County, Idaho's largest county, the number of defendants pleading guilty to reduced or amended charges has dropped from a high of 42.3%, in December of 1983, to an average of 9.7% in 1990.

Ominous Signal

While there was some hope that tougher penalties, increased law enforcement and improved public education were steering away the number of DUI cases entering the court system during the late 1980's, filing figures for 1990 seem to indicate that drunken driving continues to be a societal problem that the Idaho court system will have to contend with in large numbers.



County Endorsement; National Recognition

ISTARS RUNNING IN 19 COUNTIES

State-of-the-art computer technology is steadily replacing leather-bound docket books, three-by-five card tickler systems and the manual accounting of fees and fines in Idaho's trial courts. During 1990, Valley, Washington, Gem, Boise, Bonner, Fremont, Oneida, Cassia and Nez Perce Counties joined ten other Idaho counties that have successfully implemented the Idaho Statewide Trial Court Automated Records System (ISTARS).

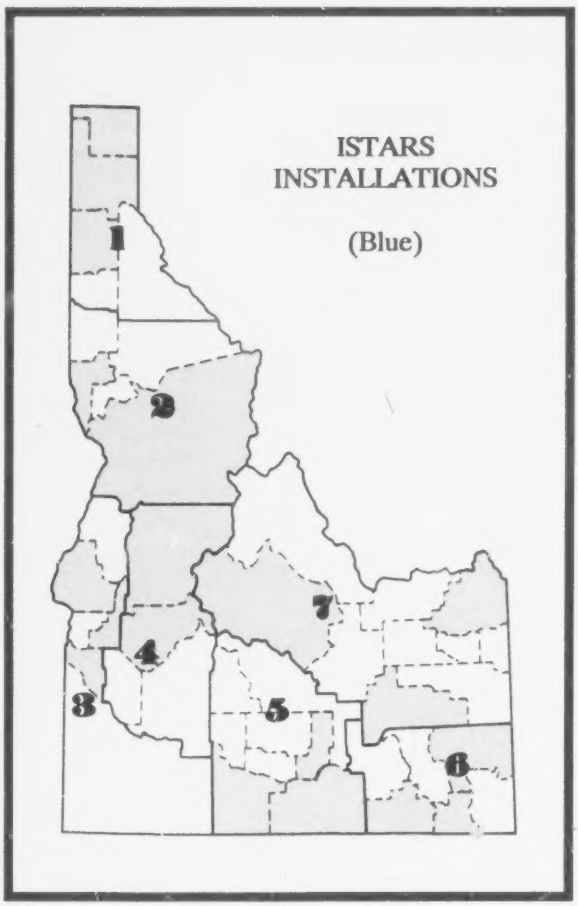
ISTARS continues to fulfill expectations by increasing court revenues through its aggressive delinquent fine collection features. Considerable time savings are being reported through the elimination of manually prepared court notices. Information, previously prepared by hand, that is forwarded to external agencies such as the Department of Transportation, law enforcement agencies, credit bureaus and the press are now being provided by computer-generated reports or through public access terminals.

Judges Benefit

Idaho's trial judges also have reaped benefits from the implementation of ISTARS. In addition to having instantaneous case information at their fingertips, judges have been provided with personal computing capability for their opinions and correspondence, and many other office automation tools. Additionally, the judges' personal computers offer them the ability to tap into automated legal research systems, as well as to exchange jury instructions and other information with their counterparts, by merely sending a diskette.

ISTARS Features

ISTARS is a fully on-line computer system that is capable of storing and retrieving critical case status information on every trial court case. The system has an automated register of actions. It can prepare notices to all parties, as well as warrants and affidavits. ISTARS accounts for and distributes all fines and fees, while processing and monitoring restitution and payments to victims. The accounting function provides for aggressive pursuit of outstanding fines through notices to parties for non-payment and monitoring reports to clerical personnel. ISTARS provides a full array of calendar management tools that include the generation of daily calendars, the identification of conflicts when attorneys and police officers are unavailable, as well as reports to help manage the use of courtrooms. In addition, ISTARS provides statistical reporting to the Supreme Court and disposition reports to law enforcement agencies and the Department of Transportation. ISTARS eliminates manual operations and reduces the need to pull case files to obtain case information. In many court locations, ISTARS will provide a public terminal to allow attorneys and the public to obtain court information.



Nationally Recognized

The National Center for State Courts recently identified ISTARS as one of seven exemplary systems nationally. In addition, the IBM Corporation featured ISTARS in an international marketing application brief brochure--one of only two computer systems in the public sector to be singled out by IBM during 1990. Copies of the Court Technology Reports, 1989, touting ISTARS, can be obtained from the National Center for State Courts in Williamsburg, Virginia. Copies of the IBM Application Brief can be obtained through any IBM sales representative worldwide.

Future Plans

Recent legislative action has provided funding for an additional 13 counties to receive ISTARS in 1991-92. This positive legislative support was due in large measure to efforts by the Idaho Association of Counties and the Idaho Association of County Clerks and Recorders, which both passed resolutions supporting statewide funding and implementation of the ISTARS system.

Details Available

Interested parties may obtain information about the ISTARS system, its development and future plans, by contacting the Administrative Office of the Courts.

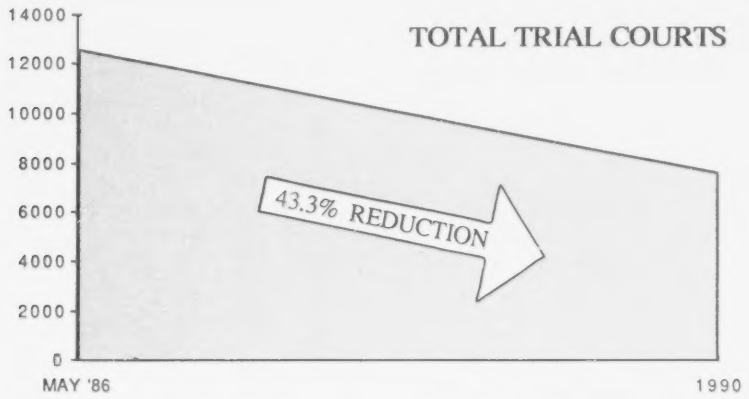
REDUCING DELAY

Despite rising caseloads, trial judges continue to focus on reducing delay in Idaho's trial courts. With support from the public and from private lawyers, court clerks and judges are actively managing their caseloads by the use of status conferences, pre-trial settlement meetings, and multiple trial settings, where sufficient judicial resources are available. Innovative approaches to dispute resolution, such as state and local bar association-sponsored settlement weeks, and increasing attempts to mediate child custody and visitation disputes, evidence cooperative efforts involving judges and lawyers to bring cases to resolution without formal litigation.

Armed with monthly reports identifying cases over adopted time standards, judges have made considerable progress in reducing delay. Since May of 1986, when baseline time standard statistics were established, there has been a 43.3% reduction in the number of cases outside the standards. The magistrate division, which during that same period experienced a 16% rise in caseloads and a 38% growth in misdemeanor drug cases, had reduced the number of pending magistrate cases over the time standards by 42.1%.

Idaho district judges, who have experienced an overall increase in case filings of 7.2% since 1986, continued to make progress in reducing the number of their cases beyond the time standards. Since May, 1986, the district courts have cut the total cases over the time standards by 50.2%.

Though challenged by record level new case filings during 1990, Idaho's trial judges carry on their battle against unnecessary court delay.



Electronic Bulletin Board is Technology Leader

The Idaho Supreme Court in 1990 became one of the only courts in the country, along with the U.S. Supreme Court and a handful of other state courts, to develop an electronic bulletin board providing access to court information. Through the bulletin board, called IdahoLaw, Supreme Court and Court of Appeals decisions are made available as they are released to the judiciary, the bar, and the public, along with other information about judicial schedules, news releases, and activities. There is no charge to access IdahoLaw. Anyone with a computer with a modem, and communication software, can obtain information from the bulletin board, for the cost of a telephone call. The phone number: (208) 334-2703.

Developed from a proposal by a Supreme Court committee chaired by Justice Byron J. Johnson, IdahoLaw is an innovative solution to communication needs in a rural state. Others responsible for bringing the bulletin board to life are Fred Lyon, Clerk of the Court; Mary Fowler, Systems Operator; John McFadden, Boise attorney; Marshall Pinkston, Computer Specialist for the Court; and Michael McConnell, Computer-Assisted Legal Research Librarian. Latest efforts to expand IdahoLaw include plans to add trial judge opinions to the bulletin board.

INTRODUCTION

In 1973, the Idaho state judiciary was one of the first to implement a computerized system to collect detailed information on every case filed in each of its trial courts. "CLASS" (Case Load Analysis Support System), has been in use continually since 1973, with occasional refinements, and today stands as one of the best systems of its kind in the nation. The Idaho trial court judges and their deputy clerks have dedicated themselves to providing statistical data, which is critical to the reliability of the system.

Gathering information for measuring past and present case load factors is crucial to obtaining an accurate picture of the current situation, historical trends, and future projections. Idaho's trial courts provide information through reports every day. After these reports are closely scrutinized and edited, the data is entered into the CLASS system through the Supreme Court's computer. Monthly management reports are then prepared for the Administrative Office of the Courts, District Administrative Judges, Trial Court Administrators, District Judges, Magistrate Judges and District Court Clerks. The recipients usually receive these reports within two weeks after the close of each month. The CLASS system also produces statistical information used in annual reports to the Governor and the State Legislature. The information generated by the CLASS system has become an integral part of the planning, budgeting and daily operational processes of the Idaho courts.

This Appendix to the Idaho Courts Annual Report for 1990 consists primarily of a year-end report generated by the CLASS system, with the exception of the appellate case load information found on the first pages. The information on pages 1-3 was derived from reports generated by the automated system "ATS" (Appeal Tracking System), also developed entirely in-house and resident on the Supreme Court's computer.

The Administrative Office of the Courts would like to thank the Idaho trial court judges and clerks for their cooperation and hard work. Through dedication to CLASS reporting activities, they have contributed to the success of the system and to Idaho's position as one of the best court systems in the nation.

*These figures are reflected in the "Added/Transf" columns of the individual appellate courts' case load reports found on the two following pages.

NOTE: Newly-filed appeals are classified as "unassigned" until they reach the At Issue stage. At this point, each appeal is either retained by the Supreme Court or assigned to the Court of Appeals. Until they are thus distributed, they are considered part of the overall appellate case load, but are not counted as part of the case load of either court.

The following chart combines and summarizes, by major case type groups, the case load activities of all three elements: Unassigned cases, Supreme Court cases, and Court of Appeals cases.
